

Continuous Improvement

The Nevada Association of School Psychologists (NVASP) provides opportunities for professional learning and encourages members to improve their practices. As highly qualified professionals with advanced graduate education at the specialist or doctoral level, school psychologists deliver a continuum of evidence-based academic and school mental health services to children, families, schools, and community agencies. School psychologists engage in continuing professional development as part of their professional responsibilities. They remain current regarding developments in research, continuing professional development, and professional practices that benefit children and youth, families, and schools.

Opportunities for NVASP Continuous Improvement for School Psychologist in Nevada include, but are not limited to:

- NVASP Annual Conference
- NVASP quarterly professional development seminars
- Representing NVASP at NASP Annual Conference
- Partnerships and participation with outside organizations
  - Annual CASP conference
  - APA Div. 16
  - Partnering with state-level school mental health organizations

The Nevada Association of School Psychologists (NVASP) is committed to providing high-quality, affordable professional development to members in order to foster growth in the field of school psychology.
